- Please use common sense and practice general safety measures when using this product.
- Parts and/or instructions are subject to change without notice.
- Use crane only on hard, level ground.
- As the jib extends, the capacity of the crane reduces accordingly; do not load the crane beyond the rated capacity for each specified jib extension position as indicated in the label.
- Never exceed the maximum 2,200-lb load capacity.
- Never operate the hydraulic power unit beyond its maximum stroke indicated on the label. Before operating the crane, ensure the jib extension is securely positioned by the pin (NO.9)
- Ensure that the latching mechanism on the load hook is working properly before each use.
- Lift the load in a well-balanced and stable way to ensure that center of gravity always remains inside the crane base; unbalanced and unstable loads can result in injury or death.
- Never position any part of your body under the load.
- Do not allow the load to swing or drop violently when moving.
- The crane is not designed to transport loads; if it is used to move a load, the load must be lowered and the jib extension should be in the lowest position possible for maximum safety. Once the operation is finished, the load promptly should be lowered to a firm, supportive surface.
- For safety, this crane is equipped with a valve to prevent the unit from being overloaded; do not tamper with or remove this valve.
